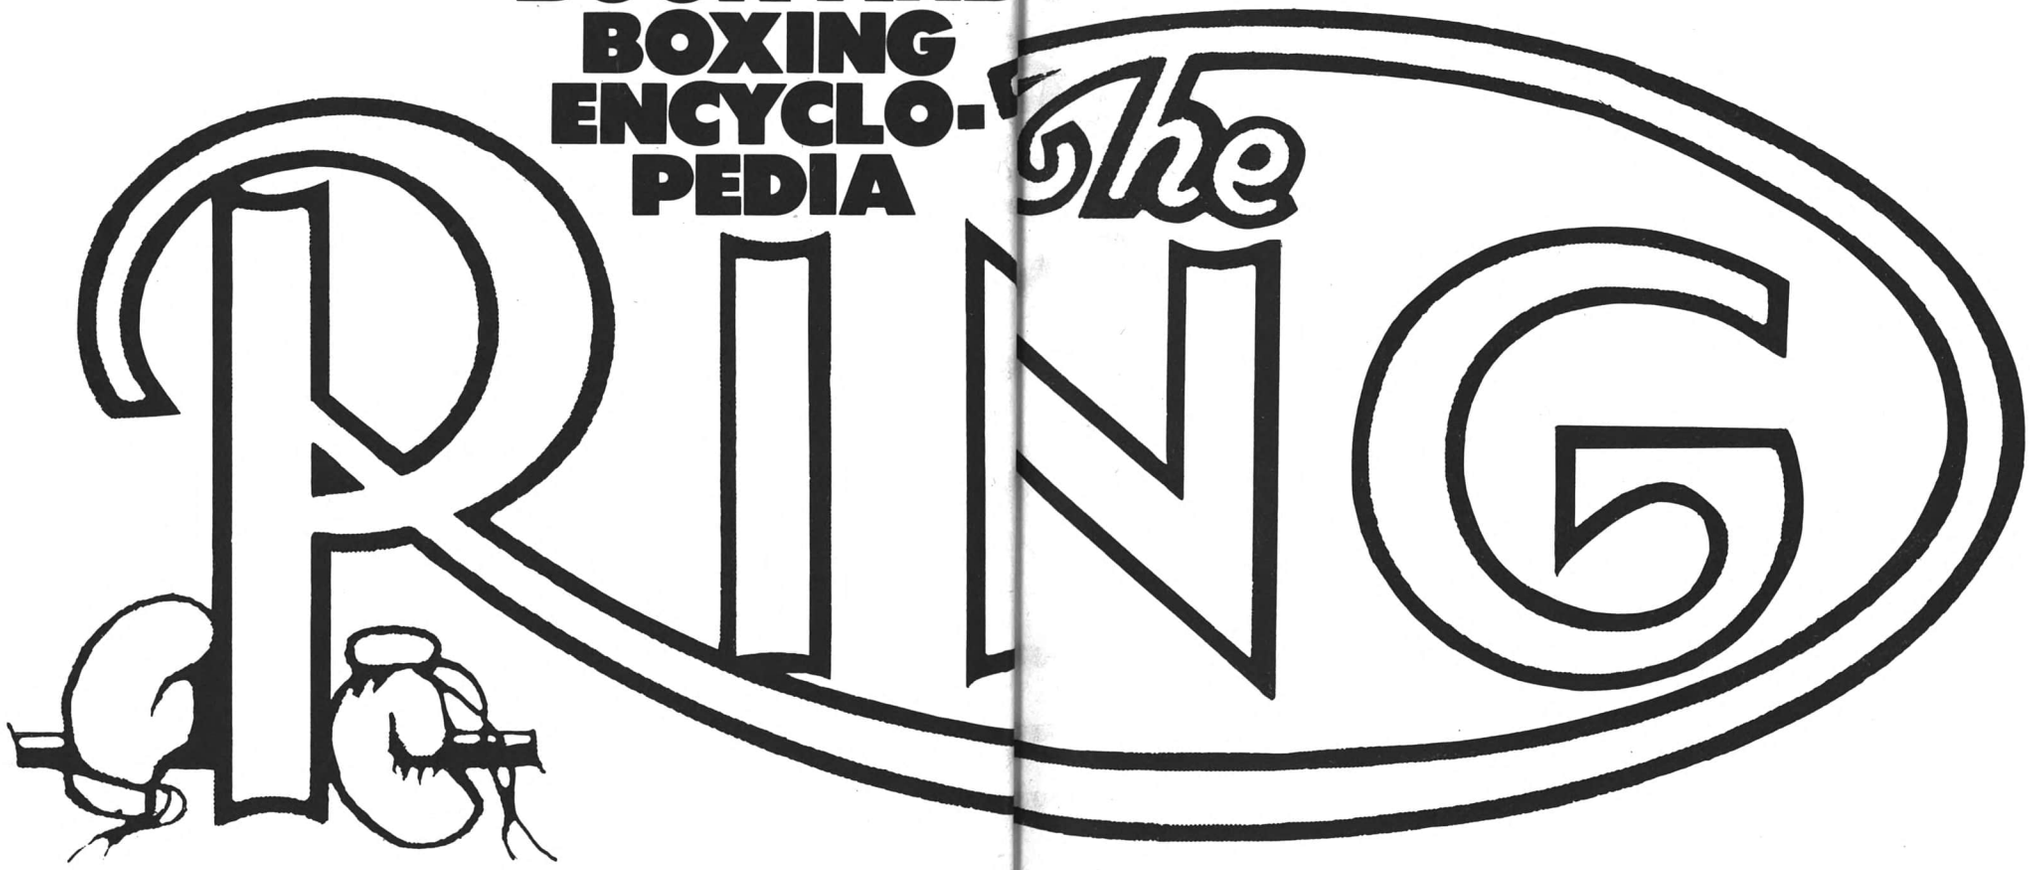
1983 RECORD BOOK AND BOXING ENCYCLO-PEDIA



FOREWORD

Almost from the very day Nat Fleischer—together with his Boswell, Dan Daniel—laid pen to paper in an effort to compile the first Record Book back in 19-ought-41, The Ring Record Book has been known to one and all as "The Bible of Boxing"—its records the only real mortar in the freelance sport of boxing, its purity in effort, if not in accuracy, the basis for its worldwide acceptance.

However, purists increasingly began to point out mistakes. And, by the mid-'70s, the legacy left by Fleischer had begun to fray around the edges, The Ring Record Book looking less like "The Bible of Boxing" than an Encyclopedia of Errors. One promoter, so disgusted with the sheer volume of errors contained in any given edition, was moved to comment, "If The Ring Record Book is 'The Bible of Boxing,' then boxing needs a New Testament."

When we first took over the good ship Ring Record Book, it had already begun to spring leaks in its accuracy and its credibility. Some of those errors, thankfully, were self-correcting, as in the case of fighters retiring. (Another example which comes under this heading was that of boxer Mike Baker calling in to tell us he was credited with two wins in supposed fights he had never participated in, held in places he had never heard of.) Other errors, unfortunately, were self-consuming, their accuracy wavering from edition-to-edition like a mirage, taking everyone in before they were taken out. And then there was a third group of errors, the most dangerous errors of all, the ones which escaped detection and became a part of boxing's most precious possession, its body of records, perpetuated with each and every printing.

Since undertaking the solemn charge of Nat Fleischer these four years ago, we have endeavored to eliminate all identifiable errors, even those old gray-headed errors which had been carried over from volume-to-volume. It got so that every volume ended less with a bang than with an eraser. Admittedly, even we have made errors of our own in our ambitious approach to revising The Ring Record Book. But, hopefully, these are fruitful errors, full of seeds and bursting forth with their own corrections, corrections we have made in subsequent editions.

It has always been our firm belief that, while we were to document the deeds of all those who cut a figure in boxing circles, the documentation of deeds was not to be figurative, but, like the Scriptures, exact. In that manner, and only in that manner, could we rightfully reclaim our place as "The Bible of Boxing."

In our zeal to pack our computers with the most information possible, we turned to the outside, consulting commission-after-commission and newspaper clips to insure the accuracy of all information. But even though the compilation of worldwide records continued to sparkle with hard work, it was still beset by errors—errors of commission as well as omission.

One of those we turned to were foreign boxing bodies in an attempt to insure that The Ring Record Book possessed the records of leading fighters from South America and the Orient who, like Lazarus, rise quickly in the ratings of the two world organizations to the exalted position of "contender." And yet, even though we contacted the Korean Boxing Commission in an effort to have them supply us with the complete records of Korea's then-top 30 fighters for inclusion in the 1982 edition, the 30 came back without the record of one man whose record everyone was looking for by the end of the year—Deuk-Koo Kim, whom the Commission had deemed, at least in their judgment, not to be amongst their top 30 fighters. This year, we have added the names of some 250 other fighters from South America, Japan and Mexico. Hopefully, we will not have another omission like the tragic Deuk-Koo Kim.

We even went to lengths to insure the accuracy of The Ring Record Book by inviting those who had records of boxers which were either incomplete or omitted to help us—and, not incidentally, help boxing—by sending us a notarized statement with such corrections. In doing so we succumbed to one of the most fragile faults of any historian: A trust in others to insure historical accuracy.

One who did supply us with records was a Mr. Lou Barsky of Florida, who used the mails to defraud both The Ring Record Book and boxing as well, sending us bogus records of some of his wards. Not only did Mr. Barsky knowingly indulge in the fraud, but admitted that because The Ring Record Book was the only central source for records and that it was normally used to gain fighters employment, he "would do it again, if necessary." Don't worry, Mr. Barsky, you won't have the chance. For not only have we noted your fighters' records in the books, but have turned over your letter to the Federal authorities for using the mails to defraud.

But, Mr. Barsky to the contrary, we still have faith in the boxing public. And in those who seek, as we do, one accurate set of records for boxing; in short, its mortar and its soul.

Therefore, so that our dream for an international registry of boxing can take effect by the end of the year, we make the following offer to those who value the accuracy of The Ring Record Book: We will pay $5 to the first person who writes in with any correction of any error found in the 1983 Ring Record Book. And, we will pay $1 for the first person who writes in with an additional fact not found in the 1983 Ring Record Book, be it champions or active fighters.

In this manner, we can achieve our goal of making sure that anyone who has ever fought can come alive through their records rather than decomposing in an eternity of print which has never been unearthed.

Please send all corrections—be they champions, which may have defied the tooth of time, or current fighters—to the undersigned. Immediately. Then, and only then, can we once again be assured of the fact that The Ring Record Book is officially "The Bible of Boxing" and that the first step for an international registry of boxing has been taken.
